Subseries Description

Subseries consists of minutes, agendas and related papers of the Chiefs of Staff Committee from 1946 to 1964 and Vice Chiefs of Staff Committee from 1950 to 1964. File 1300 as well as the agendas at the front of the volumes serve as subject index. Includes Files 1299-1316.

Administrative Histories

The Joint Staff Committee was established in June 1927 to coordinate effort in pursuit of a common policy, to ensure cooperation of the three forces, and to advise on organization, administration, combined training, etc. In January 1939, the Joint Staff Committee changed its name to the Chiefs of Staff Committee. Its terms of reference remained the same with the exception that advice on organization and administration was deleted, as these questions affecting each service were the responsibility of the Service Chief with coordination at Defence Council.

On 31 June 1947, the following revised terms of reference were approved: to advise the Minister of National Defence and the Cabinet Defence Committee on matters of defence policy, to prepare strategic appreciations and military plans as required, to be responsible for co-ordinating the efforts of the Armed Services in fulfillment of single defence policy, to be responsible for overall policy direction of joint service organisations, establishments and operations, and to investigate and consider in common all matters which may be referred to the Committee by the ministers or the Cabinet Defence Council.

Also in 1947, the Vice Chiefs of Staff Committee was created to take the load off the Chiefs of Staff Committee on the more routine matters which could be delegated. It was formed of the Vice Chiefs including the Vice Chairman of the Defence Research Board.

The Chiefs of Staff Committee comprised of the Permanent Chairman, the Chiefs of Staff of each of the three Armed Services, and the Chairman of the Defence Research Board. The Deputy Minister of National Defence normally attended all meetings while the Secretary to the Cabinet and the Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs attended when policy matters other than of purely military concern were being discussed. Meetings were called as and when necessary and they averaged about twice a month. Because the main defence effort of Canada was in support of NATO and NORAD, the majority of the items considered were of those arising out of the military policy of these bodies, and the problem and implications arising out of the Canadian forces committed to NATO and NORAD. In July 1964, under the Honourable Paul Hellyer, the Chiefs of Staff Committee was abolished.

Administrative History

In October 1945, the Cabinet approved the establishing of the Cabinet Defence Committee to consider defence questions and to report to Cabinet upon matters of major policy relating to the maintenance and employment of the three services. The members were the Minister of National Defence, the Secretary of State for External Affairs and the Ministers of Air, Finance and Fisheries.

In December 1946 the Prime Minister assumed the Chairmanship and the Minister of National Defence became its vice Chairman. In February 1953, the Minister of Defence Production, the Minister of Justice and the Associate minister of National Defence were appointed to the Cabinet Defence Committee while the Minister of Fisheries was removed.

A number of officials often attended meetings where they could be asked to present a case or express their views. These included the Chairman Chiefs of Staff, the Chiefs of each service, the Chairman Defence Research Board, the deputy ministers of the member ministries, and the Secretary to the Cabinet.

In 1957, with the advent of the Diefenbaker administration, the Cabinet Defence Committee fell into some disuse. Meetings were eventually held when briefings to Ministers on complex subjects were necessary. When the committee continued in the Liberal administration under Mr. Pearson, it reflected the diminishing importance of defence in the national priorities of the government.

Series 3 Subseries III: Defence Council (Files 1370-1474)

Subseries Description

Subseries consists of minutes, agendas and related papers of Defence Council from 1944 to 1972. The two first volumes, 1370 and 1371, serve as an index to the minutes and related papers. Includes Files 1370 to 1474.

Administrative History

The Defence Council was formed in 1922 under the National Defence Act which created a single Department of National Defence. Its role evolved over time with changes in the administration of defence. During the Second World War, the Council co-ordinated matters between the three separate departments for the Navy, Army and Air Force. Each Department had a separate Minister and Deputy Minister and the Minister for the Army was appointed as the Minister for National Defence. The Defence Council consisted of the Minister for National Defence who served as Chairman, the other two Ministers, the three Chiefs of Staff and the three Deputy Ministers who served as members with the Defence Secretary serving as secretary.

On 12 December 1946, the three separate departments were again integrated into a single Department of National Defence under the Honourable Brooke Claxton. The role of co-ordination between the forces diminished in importance. The Defence Council was formally reconstituted by PC 887 on 13 March 1947 with the Minister of National Defence serving as Chairman. The Parliamentary Assistant, the Deputy Minister, the Associated Deputy Ministers, the three Chiefs of Staff and the Chairman of the Defence Research Board served as members. Other Officers attended as required with the Defence Secretary continuing in the role of secretary. The Council was now a preliminary forum to advise the Minister on administrative matters.

In 1950, under the new National Defence Act, the Minister or Associate Minister of National Defence served as Chairman with the Parliamentary Secretary, Deputy Minister of National Defence, Associate Deputy Minister of National Defence, Chairman, Chiefs of Staff and the Chairman of the Research Board serving as members. The Council continued to advise the Minister on non-operational policy. Two committees, the Personnel Members Committee and the Principal Supply Officers Committee, reported to Defence Council. Various sub-committees and working groups reported to these two committees on matters of administrative interest.

With the abolishment of the Chiefs of Staff Committee in July 1964 under the Honourable Paul Hellyer, the Defence Council became the primary forum for the formulation of departmental policy. It was re-organized yet again with the Minister as Chairman, the Associate Minister as Vice-Chairman, and the Chief and Vice-Chief of the Defence Staff, the Chairman of the Defence Research Board and the Deputy Minister as members. Branch Heads and relevant Assistant Deputy Ministers, other governmental department representatives attended as required. A senior officer of External Affairs attended regularly. The Defence Council met more often and played an important role during the period of rapid change from 1964 to 1971. In 1971, with the introduction of the Defence Management Committee under the Honourable Donald MacDonald, the Defence Council ceased to be as significant in policy development as its role was usurped to some degree by this Committee.

Series 3 Subseries IV: Chief of Defence Staff (Files 1501-1639)

Subseries Description

Subseries consists of minutes and agendas of Chief of Defence Staff meetings from 1964 to 1969. File 1501 serves as a subject index for these meetings. Includes Files 1501 to 1639.

Administrative History

The White Paper issued by the Honourable Paul Hellyer, Minister of National Defence, in March 1964 suggested that the Armed Forces of Canada should be integrated under a single Chief of Defence Staff and a single Defence Staff producing a more effective and co-ordinated defence posture for Canada and resulting in considerable savings. On 1 August 1964 the three Chiefs of Staff and the Chiefs of Staff Committee ceased to exist and their functions passed to the new Chief of Defence Staff who was responsible for all aspects of the control and administration of the entire armed forces.

Series 3 Subseries IX: Naval Board (Files 1789-1791)

Subseries Description

Subseries consists of minutes of Naval Board meetings from 1960 to 1963. Includes Files 1789-1791 and does not include a subject index.

Administrative History

The Naval Board was constituted under Order in Council PC 485 of 22 January 1942, and consisted of the Chief of the Naval Staff, Vice Chief of the Naval Staff, the Chief of Naval Personnel, the Chief of Naval Equipment and Supply, the Chief of Naval Engineering and Construction, and the Deputy Minister of National Defence. Though the Minister was not a member, he attended many of the meetings and took the chair. The powers of the Board were limited to the giving of advice to the Minister on matters relating exclusively to the Naval Service on matters referred to it by the Minister. This duty of advising the Minister was meant to supplement, not supersede, the similar responsibility which was placed on the Defence Council.

At the 146th Meeting, the Naval Board approved the proposal to establish a Deputy Minister's Advisory Committee composed of all Board members with the exception of the Minister and the Chief of Naval Staff. Its terms of reference were to consider each item on the Board's agenda to decide whether or not the item required Board consideration and, if it did, whether it had received sufficient study by all concerned and was ready for submission to the Board and to coordinate the efforts of the Department in carrying out the decisions of the Chief of Naval Staff, the Assistant Chief of the Naval Staff, and the Naval Staff.

After the formation of the Deputy Minister's Advisory Committee, meetings of the Naval Board tended to become more and more irregularly spaced. Undoubtedly the reason for the eclipse of the Naval Board as an advisory body assisting the Minister was the rise of the Deputy Minister's Advisory Committee to take its place.

On 22 January 1947, the Deputy Minister of National Defence ceased to attend meetings. Although the Naval Board meetings were abolished on 28 July 1964, they were reconstituted on 7 January 1981.

Series 3 Subseries X: Advisory Committee on Northern Development (Files 1800-1804)

Subseries Description

Subseries consists of minutes of meetings of the Advisory Committee on Northern Development. Includes Files 1800 to 1804. File 1800 serves as a subject index.

Administrative History

The Advisory Committee on Northern Development was established on 19 January 1948. Although it was not an integral part of the organization of defence in Canada, this interdepartmental Committee dealt with the administration implications of defence activities in the north. It advised the Government on questions of policy relating to civilian and military undertakings in Northern Canada in order to provide for the effective coordination of all Government activities in that area. It reported to Ministers and to the Cabinet Defence Committee, as appropriate. The Deputy Minister of Resources and Development was Chairman, and the following were members: Secretary to the Cabinet; Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs; Deputy Ministers of Transport for Air Services, Finance, Mines and Technical Surveys,

Public Works; Chairman, Canadian Section, Permanent Joint Board on Defence; Chairman, Chiefs of Staff; Chairman, Defence Research Board; Commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the President of the National Research Council. The Controller of the Meteorological Services of the Department of Transport attended meetings, and the Service Chiefs attended when items of particular interest to their own Service were discussed. Although it was never formally abolished, it held its last meeting on 7 October 1971.

Series 3 Subseries XIII: Air Council (Files 1818 to 1970)

Subseries Description

Subseries consists of minutes and related papers of the Air Members meetings, redesignated Air Council in 1956. When volumes include subject index, the note area of the finding aid indicates it. Includes Files 1818 to 1970.

Administrative History of the Air Members Committee / Air Council

The Air Council was first authorised in 1938. The Committee was made up of the Chief of Air Staff and the heads of the major staff divisions within RCAF Headquarters in Ottawa. Headquarters Staff officers would attend the meetings to discuss specific agenda items. In 1947 the regular attendees were: Chief of Air Staff; Air Member Air Personnel (AMAP); Air Member Operations / Training (AMOT); and Air Member Technical Services (AMTS). Rarely did a Commander of a Command attend these meetings and if one did attend it was only for a specific agenda item after which the officer departed the meeting.

The meetings were held weekly in the office of the Chief of Air Staff who was the meeting chairman. The topics ranged from high policy to mundane items such as what should be the official gift for retiring senior Air Officers. Staff officers attended as required to present briefings or to participate in or observe discussion on subjects for which they were responsible. The minutes of each meeting provide a useful summary of the discussion and a list of the decision (s) taken. In this regard they are more informative than those of the Army Council. It is of note that, unlike the equivalent committee at Army Headquarters, The Army Council, which included the Director Army Public Relations as a permanent member, there was no reporting on Air Force public relations other than by exception.

A set of minutes was prepared for each meeting and copies were distributed to the regular attendees and other designated recipients. Some 60 copies were distributed. From the beginning, the minutes were numbered consecutively, eg: "the 248th meeting of the ...". This practice was altered beginning in January 1959 when the numbering system was changed to numbering meetings consecutively within each year, eg: 1/59. Special meetings were held as required but they were not numbered, just dated. Minutes were made of these special meetings and distributed. As well, a file of supporting data was created for each scheduled and special meeting, containing memoranda, background documents for agenda topics, and the short-hand notes of the stenographer who sat in at most meetings. There is some duplication of records held in this collection and this noted in the finding aid.

Series 3 Subseries XV: Panel on Economic Aspects of Defence Questions (Files 2020 to 2021)

Subseries Description

Subseries consists of minutes of the Panel on Economic Aspects of Defence Questions. Includes Files 2021 and 2020, and does not include a subject index.

Administrative History

The Panel on Economic Aspects of Defence Questions was formed in February 1950, for the purpose of providing machinery for interdepartmental consultation on those aspects of defence which are of concern to other departments in the economic, financial and supply fields, particularly those arising in connection with the North Atlantic Treaty.

The Panel which was really an interdepartmental committee reported to the individual Ministers or to the Cabinet Defence Committee on such of the above matters as were appropriate. Its composition consisted of the Secretary to the Cabinet as Chairman, the Deputy Minister of National Defence as Vice-Chairman, with the following members: Deputy Minister of Finance, Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs, Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, Chairman, Chiefs of Staff, Chairman, Defence Research Board and the Deputy Governor of the Bank of Canada. One of the main annual tasks of this committee was to consider the memorandum on the Canadian Reply to the Annual Review Questionnaire to the NATO Council. Other important subjects which this Panel dealt with were the Canadian Mutual Aid Programme, NATO Common Infrastructure, Economic and Financial Aspects of Priorities of NATO.

The Panel developed over the years into an important and significant tool in the formulation of defence policy and its recommendation to the Cabinet Defence Committee had a profound influence on their discussions and decisions. On all defence matters of wide interest, draft submissions from DND to the Cabinet Defence Committee were processed through this Panel. It became the formal way of ensuring support of the other government departments at the official level. In fact the business of this Panel became so onerous that a sub-panel of it was formed of senior officials serving the deputy ministers on the senior panel to screen the draft submissions in the first instance.

Series 3 Subseries XVI: Chief of the General Staff (Files 2025 to 2029)

Subseries Description

Subseries consists of minutes of the Chief of the General Staff Conference. It includes Files 2025 to 2029, and does not include a subject index.

Administrative History

The Chief of the General Staff (CGS) was created in 1904 to advise the Minister of the Militia and to co-ordinate all military duties performed by the General Staff. The position remained virtually unchanged until 1923 with the exception of the addition of the Air Force to its command during the First World War. Between 1923 and 1927, the post was changed to the Chief of Staff National Defence when certain administrative services were combined under one command. In 1927 the title of Chief of the General Staff was revived when the post of Chief of Naval Staff was created. The Air Force, however, continued to operate as a branch of the General Staff until 1938 when the Chief of Air Staff came into being. When the Second World War began in 1939, the Chief of the General Staff along with the chiefs of the Navy and the Air Force staffs formed the Chiefs of Staff Committee to better coordinate the Canadian war effort. This committee continued to coordinate the activities of the three services; it acted under the guidance of the Chairman, Chiefs of Staff (CCOS) from 1951 to 1964. In 1964 the position of Chief of the General Staff was eliminated along with those of the Chiefs of the Naval Staff and the Air Staff. The Chief of the Defence Staff (CDS) was created in 1964 to control and administer the Canadian Armed Forces.

Series VII: Files Relating to Second World War Post Hostilities Program (Files 3120-3128)

Series Description

Series consists of papers relating to the Second World War Post Hostilities Programmes. Includes minutes and related papers of the Cabinet War Committee, the Advisory Committee on Post Hostilities Problems and the Working Committee on Post Hostilities Problems. The files were gathered and arranged according to Colonel Robert Lewis Raymont's original order.

1. Cabinet War Committee

On 5 December 1939 the Cabinet War Committee was established. Its terms of reference were to consider questions of general policy, to consider reports from special and other committees and to coordinate war activities. It was composed of the Prime Minister, the leader of the Government in the Senate, the Ministers of Justice, Finance, National Defence, Mines and Resources and the Secretary of State of External Affairs (Prime Minister Mackenzie King). Any member of the Cabinet or civil service could be called upon to attend when the subject warranted their presence.

In May 1940, the Committee was enlarged to include the Minister of Munitions and Supply and the Minister of National Defence for Air. In July 1940, the Committee was again enlarged to include the Minister of National Defence for Naval Services.

From time to time, other Ministers attended meetings of the Cabinet War Committee without being named as full members. Throughout the history of the Committee there were very few occasions when the Prime Minister was not in the chair. When he was absent, he did not turn his duties over to the Minister of National Defence but to the Minister of Mines and Resources as the next senior member. By 11 April 1945, when it held its last meeting, it had convened 339 times covering virtually all matters of policy relating to the conduct of war. Though not officially called the "War Cabinet", it was the effective wartime government of Canada.

2. Advisory Committee on Post-Hostilities Problems

The Advisory Committee on Post-Hostilities Problems was established by the Cabinet War Committee on 24 November 1943 to give direction and guidance to the Working Committee on Post-Hostilities Problems, to refer to it matters requiring detailed study, and to submit to the Cabinet War Committee recommendations on post-hostilities problems as the occasion would arise. It was composed of the Under-Secretary of State of External Affairs, serving as Chairman, the Chief of the Naval Staff, the Vice Chief of the General Staff, the Chief of the Air Staff, the Secretary to the Cabinet, the Deputy Minister of Finance, the Vice Chairman of the National Harbours Board, the Acting Secretary of the Chiefs of Staff Committee, the Secretary of the Privy Council Office, and the Assistant Secretary of State of External Affairs. As the Working Committee on Post-Hostilities Problems had practically completed the program of studies approved by the Advisory Committee by the spring of 1945, the Advisory Committee on Post-Hostilities Problems met for the last time on 31 June 1945.

3. Working Committee on Post-Hostilities Problems

The Working Committee on Post-Hostilities Problems was first established on 3 August 1943 as a small working committee to study British Sub-Committees documents relating to arrangements for Peace with Italy and the formulation of a post-war policy on Germany, and to advise the Chiefs of Staffs and the Government on appropriate replies. It was composed of the officers of the Three Services, the Privy Council and External Affairs, and met every two weeks.

In December 1943 it was officially established by the Cabinet War Committee, changing its name to the Working Committee on Post-Hostilities Problems. It was composed of the Under-Secretary of State of External Affairs, serving as Chairman, the Chief of the Naval Staff, the Vice Chief of the General Staff, the Chief of the Air Staff, the Secretary to the Cabinet, the Acting Secretary of the Chiefs of Staff Committee, the Secretary to the Privy Council Office, and the Assistant Secretary of State of External Affairs. Its terms of reference were to keep the Advisory Committee on Post-Hostilities Problems currently informed on post-hostilities matters, and to prepare studies or arrange for the preparation of studies which it considered necessary or which it had been assigned to by the Advisory Committee on Post-Hostilities Problems. Although initially much of the work consisted of commentaries on British papers, by 28 March 1944 it dealt with broad political and economic questions of particular concern to Canada and studied Canadian post-war defence arrangements with the United States, Canada's military interests in Greenland, Canada's position in the event of strained relations between the Soviet Union and the United States, Canada's role in the defence of the North Pacific and the defence of Newfoundland, and the advantages and disadvantages for Canada of a regional security organization.

By the spring of 1945 the Working Committee on Post-Hostilities Problems had virtually completed the program of studies approved by the Advisory Committee the previous year. After January, it had met only once a month and at its forty-first meeting on 1 March 1945 it had been decided that henceforth it would meet only when requested to do so. Its last meeting was held on 5 June 1945.
